

Pomeioc Village

Engraving originally published by Theodor De Bry in 1590, based a painting by John White made in 1585. The caption on the original painting reads: “The town of Pomeioc and true form of their houses, covered and enclosed some with mats, and some with barks of trees. All compassed about with small poles stuck thick together instead of a wall.”