NORTH CAROLINA.

NORTH CAROLINA has an area of 20,996,983 acres of land, of which 5,453,975 acres are improved. Unimproved 15,543,008. This State has large bodies of land which are only valuable for their groves of pine, and are productive of great wealth in Pitch, Turpentine, Rosin and Lumber.

These large forests of pine were thought to be valueless only a few years ago. But since, by the liberal policy of the State and private capitalists, Railroads are spanning her length and breadth, and bringing a market to her very door for every thing she can make; a new era has shed life and animation upon the whole State. The towns, villages and plantations that were almost forsaken, are renewing their strength and beauty, and smiling at the unmistakable signs of prosperity.

The census of 1850 puts her total population at 869,039; Merchants at 1,913; Ministers of the Gospel, 747; Attorneys at Law, 399; Physicians, 1,083. Annual products.—Cotton bales 73,845; bushels of Corn, 27,941,051; bushels of Wheat, 2,130,102; pounds of Tobacco, 11,984,786; bushels of Peas and Beans, 1,584,252; bushels Irish Potatoes, 620,318; bushels Sweet Potatoes, 5,095,709.

WILMINGTON.

WILMINGTON is the principal exporting city in North Carolina. Its very rapid progress in the last few years may be indicated by the following: In 1840 the assessment of the city property was $580,000, now the same is nearly three millions and a half. It has a population of about 14,000; fine churches and halls, but as yet no very fine institutions of learning. Until the last few years, this has been considered too sickly for permanent high schools. It is at this time considered as healthy as any South Atlantic city. The drainage of the low wet places about the city, with other health preserving means, has contributed not a little to this desirable change.

The capital, enterprize and intelligence accumulating here so rapidly, together with its shipping and Railroad connections, which are equal to any, will make a city indeed soon. Our stay of three or four days was well rewarded, as may be seen by reference to the list of cards inserted in this work. A choice collection of cards, such as we can and do most cordially recommend as very worthy and well qualified. The greater portion of our stay here was with Capt. Robert S. Macomber who has retired from a long service as a Sea Captain to enjoy the quiet of life and the sweets of a home circle of which any man may well be proud. His varied knowledge and experience and his ready manner of communicating, gave us much amusement and pleasure. In nothing did Capt. M. please us more than his devotion to the Temperance Cause. May his life be long and useful and happy, and may his city property now worth perhaps $50,000 be doubled, as it likely will in ten years.
